The Fourth Sunday after the Epiphany

Mark 1:22-28 What is This New Teaching!

When the congregation heard and saw the effect of Jesus' teaching on that long ago Sabbath morning in Capernaum, they were absolutely in awe. When He spoke, things happened. First they saw the impact His Words had on a member of their fellowship and even more, they experienced the impact on themselves of His teaching.

We are living in a season when the term "cancel culture" is very prominent. At its very core, this movement seeks to undermine the Christian foundations of our society. The worshippers in Capernaum knew something was quite different that morning when Jesus came into the room.

What we believe, as Jesus Followers, is also quite different from the concept that is prevalent today that any truth that I hold to be valid for me is as valid as any other truth, or that any personal value has as much foundation behind it as any other value. Biblically that is absolutely not a valid conclusion.

In this time of transition and shifting foundations in the lives of many folks in our world, if we are going to be effective witnesses, it is essential that we know what we believe and why. It all comes down to understanding our own Biblical worldview and core convictions.

What we believe about ourselves, about God, and about the way life works, makes a direct impact on our decisions every day. Our worldviews shape the objective events we encounter into subjective experiences. Think about that for a moment....

Convictions require you to decide what's right ahead of time. It is so important that we know what we believe before we have to make a decision in the heat of a moment or in an unexpected confrontation. Our convictions are not based on what feels good or seems right in that moment. They are instead, the unmovable foundation upon which our lives are built. We don't need to be insensitive or judgmental when we share them with others, but we do need to be sure of what our beliefs, values and moral convictions actually are. They provide a starting point for what we think and feel about the decisions we make, the actions we take. They shape every aspect of our lives.

Romans 12:1-2 (TPT) Beloved friends, what should be our proper response to God's marvelous mercies? I encourage you to surrender yourselves to God to be his sacred, living sacrifices. And live in holiness, experiencing all that delights his heart. For this becomes your genuine expression of worship. <sup>2</sup>Stop imitating the ideals and opinions of the culture around you, but be inwardly transformed by the Holy Spirit through a total reformation of how you think. This will empower you to discern God's will as you live a beautiful life, satisfying and perfect in his eyes.

When we surrender ourselves to God in all things and acknowledge His headship we don't question Him even when the culture does. This is security that no government can provide. When we decide that He is the foundation of who we are and what we believe, it gives us a clarity of focus and understanding in spite of what we see unfolding around us from day to day. The Lord Jesus bless you this week as you seek to follow Him in all that you do and say!

Blessings on your week.

Pastor Paul Laursen

Why Am I An Episcopalian (Anglican)?

This week I read the FALL/WINTER 2020 edition of SEED & HARVEST published by Trinity School for Ministry in Ambridge, PA. Trinity is an evangelical seminary in the Anglican tradition whose desire is to be a global center for Christian formation, producing outstanding leaders who can plant, renew, and grow churches that make disciples of Jesus Christ. It has Anglican, Episcopal and Lutheran tracks of study. Fr. Joe Maiocco got his MDiv at Trinity. What spoke to me was "Why an Episcopalian or Anglican?" and "What's different about us from other Protestant denominations and non-denoms?" It's not something I often think about. But our times of theological friction, and tension among believers and our culture, caused me to ponder answers. The Rev. Dr. Leslie P. Fairfield wrote about three different strands, or traditions, that have emerged in the past 500 years in Anglicanism. The Evangelical tradition highlights the Bible, preaching, a personal relationship with Jesus, and conversion. The Anglo-Catholic strand stresses sacraments, the authority of the priesthood, and gradual growth in grace. The Charismatic tradition emphasizes renewal in the Holy Spirit, healing, and signs and wonders. And, it struck me, that's who we are, or are trying to be at Advent. Our history, traditions, former rectors, and practices touch on all 3 strands – sometimes in uplifting and sometimes in jarring ways as we try to balance competing and complementing threads. And why we are trying to be salt and light to competing forces impacting us. To me, that's a good description of who we are and why we strive for what we do at Advent Episcopal Church. I felt uplifted by these realizations.
